STONE PLUNGED TO HIS DEATH ON MOUNT JEON

WIFE SAW THE ACCIDENT

CALGARY, July 27.—The search party which discovered Mrs. Stone and is seeking the body of the late Dr. Stone, professor at Purdue University, who is dead in the mountains, has forwarded meager details of the accident to the Alpine club in Banff.

Mrs. Stone, who is not much the worse for her terrible experience, reports that she and Dr. Stone were climbing Mount Eon, and Dr. Stone in attempting to make a short cut started up the chimney with Mrs. Stone following him. They were not roped together. About halfway up, the rock on which he was standing gave way and he plunged over her head to his death on the cliff below. Mrs. Stone attempted to follow him, but became marooned on a narrow ledge of rock about halfway down, from which she was unable to move. She remained there for five days without food. The only water she had was from a small stream which trickled down the mountain side at noon when the snows above melted.

On Sunday night, a searching party, led by a Mr. A. Wheeler, president of the Alpine Club, was sent to the mountain to search for Mrs. Stone. The search has not been completed.

Edmonton of Tomorrow

WHEN a newspaper is printed and delivered to the reader for five cents, few readers indeed are aware that the actual cost of producing the paper is much more nearly ten cents than five. And this deficit must, of course, be made up by advertising revenues.

Again, a newspaper must perform a very large public service for which it is never paid at all. For instance, if a newspaper sells its advertising space at, say, a dollar an inch and then in the same issue devotes five columns of its space to some subject of public concern, it is in reality contributing one hundred dollars to public welfare.

And a newspaper company properly organized must have sufficient working capital, first all to procure in the quiet hours of the newspaper day a paper which will fully satisfy the desires of a critical public; and in addition to this to develop a circulation large enough to command a good price from advertisers.

A certain very popular weekly magazine gets about $7,500.00 per page for its advertising space, and usually carries about one hundred pages of advertising in each issue. This represents the maximum achievement ever attained by any popular publication. The value of this property is now many millions.

The value of a newspaper property is not determined by its physical or commercial assets, but by its earning power, and also its value to the community which it serves. For instance, a certain very influential newspaper in the middle states recently changed management because of the death of its principal owner. At the time of the change the property was valued at three millions. Its physical assets were worth less than three hundred thousand. But the paper was earning a quarter of a million per year.

Some ten years ago the writer of this article reorganized a certain newspaper which at that time was losing money. Additional capital was supplied and good newspaper methods were installed. This paper is now earning about fifty thousand dollars per year, and is valued at more than a half million. In addition to the value of its building—although its plant has not cost more than one hundred thousand dollars.

These facts are put forward in order to explain somewhat the procedure in reorganizing The Bulletin, and what may be expected from the reorganized institution.

The Bulletin Publishing Company, Limited, is undertaking to procure $150,000 of additional capital. This new capital will enable the company to publish a much better newspaper than is possible now. And it will also enable the company greatly to increase the circulation of The Bulletin, both in Edmonton and throughout the great territory that is tributary to Edmonton.

The Bulletin is a twenty-four hour newspaper. As every one knows, its two principal issues are published in the morning and afternoon. Its morning edition goes out on all the early trains to the entire surrounding territory. The Bulletin now has an opportunity greatly to increase its already large circulation.

This opportunity to increase its circulation is because of the very much broken up state of public opinion just now in this province. Every thoughtful person must appreciate that now, as never before, public sentiment in this province needs education, organization and leadership. And The Bulletin alone can be looked to for this vitally important service.

What has just been said is put forward in order that the progressive citizen of Edmonton may know that if he becomes a shareholder in The Bulletin Publishing Company, Limited, he is becoming a part of an undertaking of which he will find much reason for pride because he has had the foresight and public spirit to become a part when opportunity was offered.

Every one has kind sight. That is only looking back down the trail of experience. Only the man of vision and real initiative ever looks forward. But all the progress the world has known has been because of foresight.

Shares in The Bulletin Publishing Company, Limited, will be a safe and profitable investment. That is a sufficient reason for being a part of this undertaking. But there is still a better and even worthier reason—of which I shall speak more fully tomorrow.

Edmonton of Tomorrow needs The Bulletin as it needs no other institution. Public opinion in this province needs organization, and community action needs awakening, stimulus and direction. Only a real newspaper can accomplish these results. And in Edmonton only The Bulletin can be looked to for their accomplishment.

A home-owned newspaper, in which progressive citizens are all interested—a newspaper that is well organized and conducted on a high plane—is the ideal organ for such a community as this.

Time forbids to tell what really good newspapers may accomplish. For instance, to tell how in 1890 the Portland Oregonian through Harry Scott, its editor, made Oregon the only Western state that stood for a sane money stamp law. All the others had gone over to Mr. Bryan's "16 to 1" free silver fallacy. And we have not space to tell of the most influential newspaper in England—that great Liberator, the Manchester Guardian. It is often said, "What the Guardian thinks today, England thinks tomorrow."

Well, we are living in the greatest times the world has known and in a country of unparalleled opportunities. Over the gateway of Alberta could fly a sane money stamp law. Opportunity—Come and Join with Us. We have need for a newspaper here as great in ideals as are the possibilities of Alberta, and as dependable in its policy and management as are the resources of this Wonderful of the North. The Bulletin deserves that high honor, and The Bulletin is coming into its own.

These articles are of necessity short. I cannot say half I wish to in any of them. So I will close this one by inviting the most progressive and interested citizen to communicate with me by calling at my office, or by letter or phone.

His rainmaking equipment is said to consist of a large tank, a pump, and a high in which he blows a mystic cloud, which he says, is up to the clouds.

CITY HAS POWER UNIT FOR SALE; NOT NOW WANTED

New Machine Renders Retention Unnecessary of 1,000 k.w. Goldie McCullough

BIG UNIT READY TO SHIP

Street Railway Using More Power But New Schedule is More Convenient

Hide on the 1000 k.w. Goldie, McCullough generator set at the power plant are being asked for by the city commissioners. This unit will not be required when the new big unit gets to work, and therefore it is considered desirable to clear it out in order to have the convenience of the additional power. It is said that the unit would be one which is adapted to the needs of a smaller community.

Ready for shipment

It was reported by the power house superintendent, on Wednesday, that the new unit which is being supplied by the Canadian General Electric Company is now ready for shipment to this city.

As a matter of fact, it is not wanted yet for the foundations have to be shown to get properly before the engine can be laid down.

Therefore, shipment will be asked for about the middle of August, and as the foundations will be ready by the middle of September, the unit will then be built in time to be available for the extra fall load.

There is an increase in the amount of electricity being furnished the city from the power house. Last week showed an increase of 400 k.w. house over the amount used by the city the corresponding week of last year, and the trend is likely to increase rather than get smaller.

Street Railway schedule

The latest schedule to be adopted by the street railway is taking more power to operate than has been the case of late.

However, the schedule is giving very satisfactory service compared with the late one, and the cars are keeping excellent time for their runs.

An analysis of only the last two cars showed any deviation greater than half a minute or so over their schedule time. The two cars were each ten minutes late and in each case the motor men were called upon for explanations.

FROM THE NORTH

The McMurray train that arrived on Tuesday brought 75 passengers from McMurray and points north.

TASTE AND SMELL NOT SUFFICIENT FOR CONVICTION

Magistrate Hughes Decides That Analysis is Necessary To Decide Liquor Case

The evidence of Detective Smith that a certain liquid in a case on the shelf was not taken as conclusive evidence in the case of Wally Steinhilber, who was charged with having liquor illegally in his possession at his cafe on 10th St.

There was about a third of a bottle full of a clear liquid which the detective, as a result of testing, decided was intoxicating, but Magistrate Hughes said that he could not see his way clear to convict the accused on the experience of one man.

More covered space is required by the stallholders both for their own use and for the produce exhibited. The open shed does not provide sufficient protection.

My wife, Kate, having left my bed and home, I hereby certify that I will not be responsible for any debt incurred by the said Kate after the date of this notice.

Allegations Made That Dogs and Cats Are Abused When Destroyed
